Testimonials and RJ Data:

Commonwealth's Attorney Parisa Dehghani-Tafti stated, "Heart of Safety is about survivors' rights, youth rehabilitation, and crime prevention; for survivors, it's the peace of mind of taking charge of their recovery; for young people, it's a second chance to make right what they did wrong; and for the community, it's an investment in crime prevention."

"Punishment often makes the problem worse, particularly when it arises from unmet basic needs, a lack of skills, or a history of trauma in young people," said Arlington resident and cofounder of the Coalition for Trauma Informed Schools, Juliet Hiznay. "Heart of Safety facilitates communication and enables community members to identify root causes of harm while developing meaningful solutions in response to these harmful acts."

By the numbers:

- 13% recidivism rate for juveniles in San Francisco County who participated in a restorative justice process, compared to a 53% recidivism rate overall.
- 94.9% of participants report that they would participate in a restorative process again.
- 92.7% of participants report that they would recommend the program to a friend.

Restorative Justice "RJ"
Program

What are the Benefits of a Restorative Justice "RJ" Process?

An RJ process provides an opportunity for victims of crime to decide what they need to be whole after harm, and for defendants to take meaningful accountability for the harm they caused. An RJ process understands and responds to the needs of each involved party and the broader community. Trained facilitators create safe environments for the parties to identify, repair, and prevent future harm.

After many individual preparation meetings with facilitators, and with the consent of both parties, a face-to-face encounter between the person harmed (victim) and the person responsible for harm (defendant) may take place. The person responsible for harm will have the opportunity to take responsibility, and then work with the person harmed to decide what meaningful accountability looks like in their unique case.

Benefits of Restorative Justice:

If you are a person who has been harmed, restorative justice may help you:

- Tell the offender how you and others have been affected
- Decide how the harm should be repaired
- Receive support from the community
- Have your questions answered about why this happened to you

If you are a person who has done harm to another, restorative justice may allow you to:

- Take accountability for your actions
- Hear how your actions affected others
- Express remorse
- Help decide how the harm should be repaired
- Begin the process of restoring trust

What is The Heart of Safety Program "HOS"?

HOS is a grassroots program and a national leader in diverting criminal cases into an RJ conferencing diversion process. The program is offered in the following situations:

- Defendant aged 26 or under who is willing to take accountability for the harm that occurred
- Felony and serious misdemeanor charges
- Identified person harmed (victim) who consents to participation
- The harm must have occurred in Arlington or Falls Church, but the parties need not reside in the jurisdiction

What types of cases make good candidates for HOS?

- Conflict between people who are likely to see each other again and/or be in an ongoing relationship
- A victim who is seeking answers and peace of mind after harm
- A victim who is concerned about the well-being of the defendant and wants to take the driver's seat on deciding what accountability looks like

Participating in HOS supports victims through harm in ways that traditional prosecution cannot.

- Anything shared in the RJ process cannot be used in prosecution
- Upon successful completion of the program and accountability plan, criminal charges may be reduced or dismissed, and potentially eligible for expungement
- Healing and support circles are available to victims outside of HOS

What's Next?

If you would like to participate in HOS please contact Grace Woodward, Director of Restorative Justice, directly. She will put you in contact with Kimiko Lighty, the Executive Director of Restorative Arlington, who will welcome you into the program. An RJ facilitator will schedule a time to meet one-on-one with the harmed person and whomever they would like to support and accompany them through the RJ process. In this meeting, the facilitator helps the person harmed to identify their goals for the process, and asks three main questions:

- · What happened?
- Who was harmed and how?
- What can/should be done to repair the harm?

The facilitator then meets individually with the person responsible for the harm, and asks them the same three questions. After as many meetings are necessary for each party to feel prepared, the facilitator and the person harmed may set a time for an RJ conference. Each party can bring whomever they'd like to support them emotionally, and they can even appoint a surrogate to stand in their place if they prefer to not meet face–to–face with the person responsible for harm.

At the RJ conference everyone answers the same 3 questions (What happened? Who was harmed and how? What can/should be done?). The parties write a Restorative plan together to address the harm. This plan must be SMART: Specific, Measurable, Attainable, Relevant, Timely. The plan can include many different measures of accountability including, but not limited to, community service, classes, financial compensation, and a written apology.

The plan must be accomplished in timely manner and the facilitator will write reports for all parties. Restorative Arlington will not share the content gathered in the conference, but will update the prosecutor on the process.
