JUVENILE COURT JUDGES & COURT CLERK

CLERK of COURT

Mission

To serve the Court by preparing and dispersing judicial orders, assisting with Court procedures and providing efficient services for the people coming before the Court, other agencies, attorneys and employees within the provisions of the Code of Virginia and Virginia Supreme Court policies

Clerk's Office Highlights

- ◆ Ronikka Lartey was sworn in as the new Juvenile Court Clerk succeeding Amy Burnham on January 22, 2019. Ms. Lartey came to the Arlington JDRDC with twenty-two years of experience working the Clerk's offices of the Prince William County General District Court, and the Alexandria Circuit Court.
- ◆ In addition to covering the day-to-day administrative duties of the Court, the Clerk's Office manages the monthly Driver's License Ceremony for newly licensed juvenile drivers and their parents. The attendees watch a video hosted by media celebrity Katie Couric, hear presentations from a police officer and lawyer, and receive their licenses from the judge.

Restitution Program

The Restitution Program allows victims of crimes to be compensated for their out-of-pocket expenses. Victims provide documentation of their losses and offenders are ordered to repay that amount through the clerk's office. The judge or the probation officer determines how long the person has to complete payments.

In FY 2019, the clerk's office received $16,042 in restitution.

SAFE HAVENS

Arlington Safe Havens is a supervised visitation and exchange program funded by a grant from the US Department of Justice, Office of Violence Against Women. This three year grant was awarded in 2017 and the program currently in its second grant year.

Safe Havens provides a safe place for supervised visitation and exchanges for families impacted by domestic violence, child abuse, stalking, dating violence, and sexual assault.

The services are provided free of charge to eligible families who meet the referral criteria. Currently, the program has provided services for children as young as 4 months to 14 years old. Safe Havens has bilingual staff who are trained in multi-cultural awareness.

Supervised Visitation and Exchanges are provided on Wednesdays, Fridays, Saturdays, and Sundays. The office is located in the Arlington Human Services Building, Sequoia 1, 2100 Washington Boulevard, First Floor.

DETENTION DIVERSION

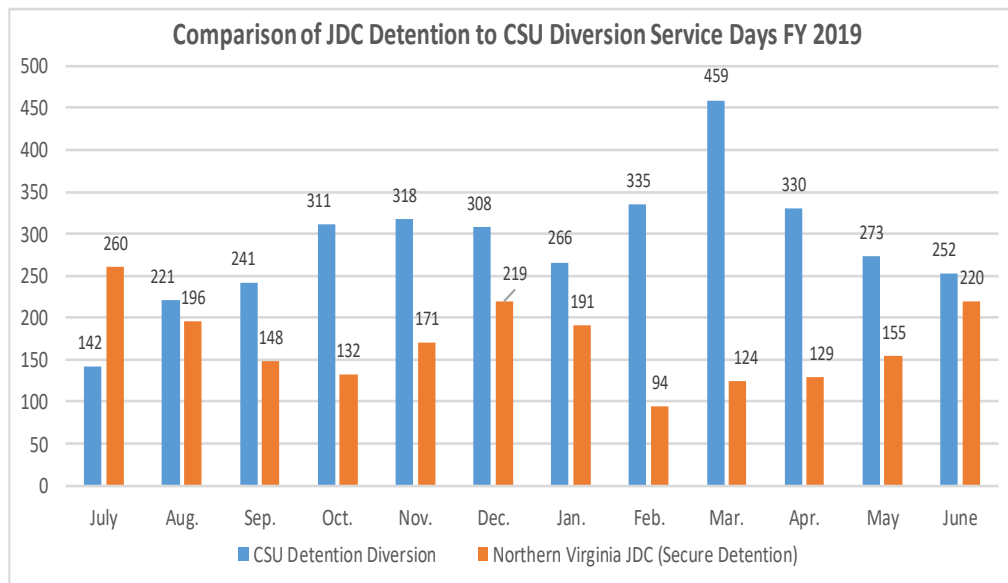

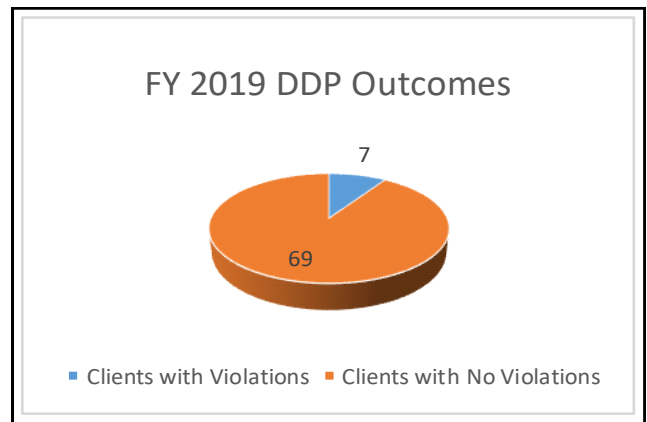

The Detention Diversion Program (DDP) of the Court Services Unit reduces the number of youths placed in the Northern Virginia Juvenile Detention Home (NVJDH) by offering an alternative placement within a supervised home-detention, community-based program. The DDP has a caseload capacity of sixteen and operates under the supervision of the Arlington Gang Prevention Task Force Coordinator, Robert Vilchez. The judges are the primary source of referrals to the program.

Detention Diversion Program Counselors Osvaldo Castillo and Carla Medina maintain intense daily supervision and case management of youth placed in the program. Diversion Counselors conduct community outreach contacts, schools visits, and contacts with social services professionals involved with the youth while they are in the program. The program staff organizes and facilitates recreational and enrichment activities with youth to promote compliance and successful completion of the program.

NORTHERN VIRGINIA JUVENILE DETENTION CENTER

Program Description: The Northern Virginia Juvenile Detention Center (NVJDC) is located in Alexandria, Virginia. It is a secure detention facility that serves adolescents who have been confined by the Juvenile and Domestic Relations District Court or a Circuit Court. The NVJDC is operated under the authority of a five member juvenile detention commission appointed by the three jurisdictions its serves: Arlington County, the City of Alexandria and the City of Falls Church. Ms. Patricia Romano and Dr. Alfred Taylor are the representatives appointed by the Arlington County Board and Mr. Alex Boston is the representative appointed by the Falls Church City Council. The NVJDC is certified to operate by the Virginia Department of Juvenile Justice.

Population Served: When ordered by the court, the NVJDC provides pre-dispositional detention services to juveniles who are alleged to have committed an act that would be a felony or Class 1 misdemeanor if committed by an adult. These juveniles also present a clear and substantial threat to the person or property of others or to themselves. The NVJDC also serves juveniles who have been found delinquent for a criminal offense and sentenced to the juvenile detention center. This includes sentences of up-to thirty days or, in some circumstances, the court may order juveniles to complete the six month post-dispositional program, called New Beginnings.

Program Objective: The Northern Virginia Juvenile Detention Center's mission is to create through example, policy, programs, and environment, a safe and secure setting that advocates good mental and physical health.

Program Methodology: DC services include education, medical care, recreation, emergency psychiatric intervention, life skills training, visitation, and various volunteer programs. The behavior management program is based on positive reinforcement through a level system that allows detainees to earn additional privileges by demonstrating positive behaviors. Mental health services for Arlington youth at NVJDC are provided by a therapist with the Child and Family Services Division of the Arlington Department of Human Services. Alexandria City Public Schools provide teachers certified by the Virginia Department of Education to teach Math, English, Social Studies, Science, and Art. Instruction staff includes special education teachers, a literacy coach and an English language learner's teacher.

Juvenile Court Diversion

There are certain intake complaints that the Code of Virginia allows a juvenile court intake officer to handle in an informal manner. A case is handled informally when no petition is filed and the juvenile is provided an opportunity to resolve the complaint outside of court. In these cases, the intake officer “diverts” the youth from the court to a program or service designed to address the underlying behaviors and attitudes that contribute to the offense. This process is known as “diversion”.

The types of cases that frequently qualify for diversion are: possession of marijuana, underage possession of alcohol, petit larceny, underage possession of tobacco, and Children in Need of Services or Supervision (CHINS).

In FY’ 2019, cases that were diverted included the original divertible matters, i.e., CHINS, underage possession of alcohol and tobacco, possession of marijuana, and petit larceny. Diversion efforts were expanded to include new criminal offenses such as grand larceny, trespass, disorderly conduct, identity theft, obstruction, weapon on school property, simple assault, and false ID to law enforcement.

Adult Probation Unit

Mission

To provide services for adult offenders, encourage family stability and protect the community through conducting investigations, supervising offenders and coordinating intervention services

ADULT PROBATION

The Adult Unit investigates and supervises adults who come under the jurisdiction of the court on matters relating to domestic violence, other intra-family criminal cases and cases of adult offenses against children. It seeks to protect and preserve the welfare of the family and the community by providing evaluation, treatment, and referral services for adult clients. Counselors conduct case investigations and evaluations, supervise probation, coordinate treatment services, monitors compliance with court orders, and files violations for non-compliance.

The Adult Unit provides supervision to an increasingly diverse community, many of which are non-English speakers. Probation staff research new resources, and collaborates with community partners to bridge the gap in services, utilizing two bi-lingual officers to support a growing number of Spanish speaking probationers.

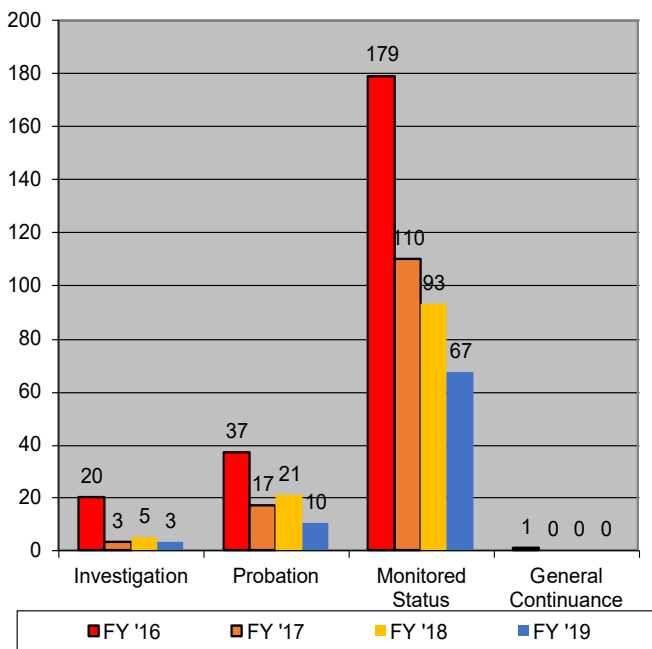

One member of the Adult Unit is a substance abuse specialist. This member is a stakeholder on Arlington's Assisted Addiction Recovery Initiative committee which in response to the opiate epidemic. Flyers were developed and posted to bring awareness to International Overdose Awareness Day and National Recovery Month outlining related events in Arlington. This member took the initiative to advocate for the Court Services Unit to begin testing for ETG which detects alcohol in the urine up to 72 hours after use. This member also collaborated with the juvenile substance abuse counselor in providing the Nicotine Diversion Program to appropriate juveniles. One member of the adult unit is also a certified Crisis Prevention Intervention Specialist.

In a concerted effort with the Department of Justice (DJJ), the adult unit began a transition to an evidence-based approach to enhance the principles of effective intervention. This effort to deliver more intense intervention to clients using Effective Practices in Community Supervision (EPICS) was being utilized by the juvenile unit for over two years to reduce recidivism. The rationale for EPICS training is to decrease criminal behavior, ensure public safety, provide accountability, monitor compliance to court orders, and broker services. The adult unit currently has two counselors and an acting supervisor trained in EPICS and plans are in place to have the remaining two adult counselors trained in the near future. The two trained adult counselors are currently transitioning EPICS to their existing caseloads.

JUVENILE PROBATION SERVICES

The Juvenile Probation Unit provides services for a wide range of cases including: delinquency, Children in Need of Services / Supervision (CHINS), transfers of juveniles to Circuit Court, supervision of youth detained pre-adjudication, and child custody and visitation matters. The Juvenile Probation Services Unit strives to achieve a "balanced approach." This approach focuses on the principles of community protection (public safety), accountability, and competency development.

Investigations and reports are required for all CHINS and probation cases. Social histories make up the majority of the reports that CSU personnel completes. These court-ordered investigations describe the social adjustment of the youth before the court and provide timely, relevant, and accurate data. This information helps the court select the most appropriate disposition for the case and provides the basis for the CSU to develop appropriate services for the juvenile and the family.

There are ten juvenile probation officers and two supervisors who manage juvenile probation cases using YASI assessments, Motivational Interviewing, community programs and supervision as tools to help youth and families decrease or eliminate delinquent, dysfunctional behaviors and adopt socially acceptable, law abiding behavior. Each probation officer also coordinates a special program for the CSU.

The duties of the juvenile probation staff include case preparation, management, documentation, referrals to services and coordination of client services. Probation officers visit clients in detention, schools, homes, state correctional facilities and residential placements. Staff also attend interagency planning meetings and court hearings.

During the past year the CSU has continued training and practice with Effective Practices in Community Supervision (EPICS). The model uses an appointment structure and Cognitive-Based Interventions in one-on-one interactions with clients to promote social learning. This approach is meant to change the dynamic of the probation officer from the traditional "referee", who monitors court mandates, to a "coach", who collaborates with the client and family. The EPICS model is used in concert with case management to identify risk level, target criminogenic need, supervise and provide evidence based interventions in an individualistic manner. The case manager matches offenders to services and programs which address risk factors and remove or accommodate barriers related to an individual's success.

All juveniles placed on probation supervision with Arlington County Juvenile Domestic Relations Court do not have the same likelihood of re-offending. Through the use of an empirically validated risk assessment instrument, Youth Assessment Screening Instrument (YASI), juveniles can be classified in different levels of risk. The judicious allocation of limited resources mandates that those juveniles representing the highest risk of safety to the community receive the most intensive supervision.

JUVENILE PAROLE SERVICES

Parole Officer Lacreitia Davis

The parole officer handles cases involving juveniles who are committed to the Department of Juvenile Justice and released to the community after they have served their sentence. This is called “parole” and these youth are supervised by a parole officer.

Direct Care

Juveniles who are committed to the Department of Juvenile Justice (DJJ) are placed on direct care status after being processed by the Central Admission Placement Unit (CAP). Direct care programs are responsible for the supervision of juveniles in a secure setting where they receive treatment, educational services and other special programs. These programs operate within juvenile correctional centers (JCC’s). DJJ operates one JCC (Bon Air JCC).

Parole

After they are released from direct care, juveniles return to their communities on parole supervision. During this period, the juvenile offender is assigned a local parole officer. Planning for parole begins when the juvenile is first committed, and continues throughout direct care, until the juvenile is released on parole. Parole planning builds on skills the juvenile learns while in the JCC and uses the balanced approach, with emphasis on community safety and competency development. Juveniles can be supervised on parole until their 21st birthday; however, the actual time of supervision is based on their risk level, criminal history, and their individual needs. Re-entry services may include individual and family counseling, substance abuse treatment, vocational services, and specialized educational services. These services may be provided by organizations under contract with the Department of Juvenile Justice. Parole also works in collaboration with the DJJ Regional Re-entry Specialist on job readiness skills for the local parolees.

Upon release from the JCC, juveniles who are not Virginia residents return to their home state. Supervision of these youth is provided by their home jurisdictions under an agreement with the Interstate Compact on Juveniles (ICJ). The ICJ is an agreement between 49 states and the District of Columbia (except Georgia), that ensures effective supervision of juveniles. Under the agreement, if a juvenile violates the terms of his or her parole, s/he is returned to the jurisdiction where the offense occurred.

COMMUNITY SERVICE

Program Description / Objective: Community service is a form of alternative sentencing. Through community service, offenders are invited to take responsibility for past actions and repair the damage done by giving back to the community and providing a service that enriches the lives of others. The program is administered by Offender Aid and Restoration of Arlington, Inc. (OAR). More information is available at www.oaronline.org

Population served: The following types of clients are referred to OAR for assistance in completing community service:

- Individuals who are court-ordered to complete community service through the Arlington County or City of Falls Church Courts;
- Individuals who have been approved by a Judge to complete community service in lieu of paying their court costs;
- Individuals who are referred by their attorney to complete community service pre-trial.

Program methodology: Probation officers refer juveniles and adults to OAR when community service has been ordered by the court or is required as a condition of diversion. OAR maintains approved community service sites in which clients are placed. An OAR case manager interviews each client to discuss their case, review their requirements, and determine the most appropriate work site. OAR establishes a schedule with the client and worksite for completion of the number of hours required. Upon successful completion, OAR provides the client with a certificate of completion and notifies the court. When clients fail to meet the requirements, OAR sends a notice of violation to the court. This notice may be used by the probation officer to initiate further court action for non-compliance.

Program Highlights: OAR partners with over 300 nonprofit and government agencies in the area to place our clients for community service work. Some examples of community service opportunities at local nonprofit organizations can include:

- Helping in a food bank
- Participating in a fundraising car wash
- Tutoring at an after school program
- Air Force Cycling Classic, and Columbia Pike Blues Festival)
- Assisting the elderly
- Cleaning a park
- Local community events, i.e., County Fair
- Shelving books at a library

PSYCHOLOGICAL SERVICES

Program Description: The Psychological Services Team provides direct and consultative psychological services to adult and juvenile offenders and their families.

Program Objectives:

- Provide the court with psychological and mental health assessments on individuals before the court for use in disposition of cases
- Improved psychosocial functioning among juveniles and adults before the court
- Provide probation officers and other CSU program staff with guidance on client behavioral and mental health and strategies for intervention
- Reduce the risk of further acting-out and delinquent behavior so that offenders may enjoy more adaptive and satisfying participation in the community.
- Licensed clinicians provide family therapy and on-site consultation to youth and families involved in our residential programs, Argus House and Aurora House.

Population Served: The Psychological Services team provided services to program clients in the Young Achievers’ and Girls’ Outreach Programs, and residential programs Argus House and Aurora House. Psychological Services offers consultation to youth and families who are under probation supervision and diversion on an ad hoc or ongoing basis. Specific evaluation and consultation services were offered to 19 clients during FY 2019(-9.5% from FY 2018).

- Training in mental health and interventions to staff.
- Program development and assessment of program outcome.

Key Trends:

Continuing from FY 2018, the majority of the comprehensive psychological evaluations were conducted by the court psychologist. Evaluations which were referred to contracted psychologists were those pertaining to risk of sexual offense, competency to stand trial, or for youth whose circumstances benefited from specific expertise (e.g., younger than 8 years old, parental capacity, etc.). Four comprehensive psychological evaluations were ordered for adults, and three risk of violence assessments for juveniles were conducted in response to charges related to suspected school violence or violence in the home. Lastly, individual therapy was given to 1 program-involved youth while they were enrolled in a program because familial insurance restricted providers to those inconvenient for the client geographically.

ANDREW B. FERRARI ARGUS HOUSE

Program Description

Argus House is a community-based group home for at risk adolescent males between the ages of 13 and 17. It's recently licensed independent living program accepts clients aged 17-20. Clients are referred by the Arlington County Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court Service Unit, Arlington County Social Services, The City of Falls Church, or the City of Alexandria Courts and/or Social Services, and parents. They can be either court involved due to delinquency, status offenses and/or in the custody of social services. The residents typically have issues related to family dysfunction, authority issues, anger control, academic performance, and supervision issues. The program is client centered, trauma focused, and develops treatment plans and goals based on the clients individual and family needs. The program has a structured level of care with a set daily schedule utilizing a combination of services to include daily life skills, family counseling, group and individual work utilizing evidenced based practices, recreation, academic support, and community service.

Program Objective

While at Argus House, residents and their families work on improving communication, establishing a structure in the home, and resolving the individual social problems that led them into the court system. Parents must attend all meetings and are required to supervise their sons during home passes. They may pay a monthly assessment to Arlington County, based on a sliding scale.

Program Methodology

Peer group sessions, family sessions, and parent groups continue to be the primary means of dealing with long standing social problems of both the residents and their family members. Residents participate in peer group sessions to address social problems, to confront each other about poor choices, and to give constructive feedback about personal, family and school issues. When a client completes the Andrew B. Ferrari Argus House program, there are tangible improvements at home, school, and in the community.

AURORA HOUSE

Program Description

Aurora House is a community-based residential counseling program serving adolescent females ages 13-20 who reside in Arlington County, the City of Falls Church, the City of Alexandria, and Fairfax County. Aurora House provides a highly structured, supervised therapeutic environment, that affords both the child and the parent the opportunity to work together on addressing issues, such as truancy, running away, family conflict and behavioral problems within the community. Clients are placed through the Juvenile and Domestic Relations District Court or the Department of Human Services.

Program Objectives

While at Aurora House, residents and their families use the multiple counseling services to identify the issues that contributed to the need for intervention and begin the work of developing new solutions that will assist the child in her return home. A unique component of the program is the accessibility to community resources. This allows the child and family to remain integrated with their home, family, community and school while working through the change process.

Program Methodology

Aurora House provides individual, group and family counseling services that utilize elements of cognitive behavioral techniques and teach social and interpersonal relationship skills. Counseling services are most effective when accompanied by a behavioral management system and a highly structured living environment. Positive changes are encouraged and reinforced on a daily basis, providing tangible outcomes most notably by improvement in school attendance and performance.

GIRLS' OUTREACH PROGRAM

Program Description

Girls' Outreach is an after school, evening reporting program that serves female clients between the ages of 13 and 17 who reside in Arlington County or Falls Church City. Girls are referred to the program through the Court, the schools or their families. The program offers a structured and intensely supervised environment during the high risk hours after school.

Program Objectives

While attending Girls' Outreach, girls involved with the Court remain at home with their families as they address the issues which caused them to become Court-involved or at-risk. The program fosters self-esteem by building their social competencies.

Program Methodology

It offers clients trauma informed, and psycho-educational groups on a variety of topics such as self-esteem, employment preparation, anger management, social skills, and healthy relationships. Structured activities include community service, therapeutic recreation and book club. Education is emphasized by mandatory study hall and tutoring. Personal responsibility is encouraged through weekly house meetings, goal setting and peer feedback.

YOUNG ACHIEVERS PROGRAM

Program Description

Young Achievers Program is an after school program for boys ages 13-17, who are involved in the juvenile court system. A unique aspect of this program is staff mentoring and role modeling. Since the program's inception in 2012, it has grown in the services and support it has to offer. The Young Achievers Program provides its clients with a tightly structured and supportive environment designed to foster academic achievements, develop skills needed to make informed choices, manage social pressures and demands without negative consequences, and to have positive and respectful peer and adult relationships.

Program Objective

While attending the Young Achievers Program, the young men are afforded the opportunity to hone the skills necessary to avoid further court involvement. This is accomplished through consistent, direct, and honest feedback regarding their behaviors and accomplishments. It is driven by an active and balanced schedule that incorporates healthy physical activities, supportive study hall, community service, and a myriad of psycho-educational groups. The program has a strong component of accountability, which is accomplished utilizing the point system, and both positive and negative consequences.
